On Friday 13 July, I and many other school and college students will stand among thousands protesting on the streets against Donald Trump.

Together we will stand against the capitalist system Trump represents, the system of sexism, racism, homophobia, war and poverty that plagues so many today. On 13 July we can all unite on the streets of London and other cities around the country. We can show Trump how young people stand with the working class of the US and the world.

We see his doomed America. Without healthcare, education, justice - without a future. The super-rich want to doom us: we say it’s their system which is doomed.

I once thought that bigotry would be a thing of the past by now. That the horrors of war and the terror of nuclear conflict would have been a lesson learned.

But capitalism’s inability to promise a future to the working class has led to an openly bigoted demagogue being in control of the wealthiest and most powerful country in the world.

He cares more about his ego than human lives. We joke about him and Kim Jong-un comparing the sizes of their ‘nuclear weapons’ with a ruler in the boys’ toilets, because it seems absurd when you take in how much devastation it could cause.

Fellow right-wing politicians, including Boris Johnson, present him as a peacemaker, as someone worthy of a Nobel Peace Prize. But this reckless warmonger was the one who escalated recent nuclear tensions with North Korea! He has inflamed the Middle East through his moving of the US embassy to Jerusalem. This while peaceful protesters are shot dead on the Gaza border, including a 14-year-old boy.

He talks himself up for calling peace summits - then backs out of them! His impulses put countless lives at risk and vanquish hopes of peace for many.

But many see the need to fight back through their anger.

Join me and thousands of others on 13 July. Let your voice be heard, and be part of starting to change history.

If you have school or college on that day, organise a walkout. Show solidarity with workers, young people and the oppressed that Trump and his fellow billionaires have persecuted. Show Theresa May and the Tories that young people and workers do not accept their bigoted capitalist agenda either.

Together we are more powerful than Trump. Together we can bring hope to those who need it most, and fight for a world free from inequality and division: a socialist world.

Thompsons policies have increased. But the latest issue of the Economist concludes that the US big business is not content and better from Trump’s office, due to the deregulation incentives and massive tax cuts, along with some of the changes in the Federal Reserve’s monetary policy. In the first quarter of 2018, the president mentioned the Economist “The growth of the US economy has been the strongest in a decade, and it is growing at a faster pace.” In the second quarter of 2018, the growth rate was 3.2%.

The report also pointed to the strength of the US labor market, with the unemployment rate dropping to 4.1% in June, the lowest level since 1969. The growth in the US economy has been driven by consumer spending, business investment, and exports.

The US economy has been growing at a faster pace than many other major economies, with the US GDP growing at an annual rate of 3.2% in the second quarter of 2018. The unemployment rate has dropped to 3.8%, the lowest level since 1969, and the labor force participation rate has increased to 62.9%, the highest level since 2001.

This minority Tory government is isolated in a generation, for splits over Brexit are clear for all to see, and that rift ends all the way to the top of the cabinet.

Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson has used an official trip to Latin America to launch internal criticisms of his Foreign Secretary, who he accused of seeking to “get rid of me” and take Britain back to the EU.

This is the latest of a series of moves by the ex-media executive to undermine Prime Minister Theresa May’s policies. A few weeks ago he returned to May’s principle policy for a ‘soft’ customs partnership with the EU, the idea that is the latest of a generation.

Wales TUC 2018: Socialist Party members challenge leadership at undemocratic conference

trade Union Council delegate

It was Socialist Party members who brought some life to the Wales TUC congress, speaking in numerous debates and demanding a showdown with the General Secretary in the autumn. This was a clear rejection of the party’s direction and its undemocratic approach to union business.

However, the conference did not respond to criticism and outright demands. The party’s general secretary was not challenged and the delegates were not allowed to call an immediate vote on a proposed rule change. Instead, the unions committed to a consultation period which will end in April 2019.

The best indication of the conference’s failure to respond to demands was theaN deal for 20 May. The 900-strong NHS strike was the result of a clear socialist struggle against the hated Trade Union Act, overcoming its barriers and proving decisively that is fit and ready to take on the government and employers who need to support our branches to organise and win - build our struggles!

UNISON BALLOTS WORKERS AT HOSPITALS AT RISK OF PRIVATISATION

The announcement from the rally stage that two more extra days of action were planning was welcomed by the delegates.

Socialist Party members have always been involved in fighting to defend our jobs, terms and conditions. The NHS is under threat from plans to turn it into a ‘wholly owned subsidiary company’ (a form of NHS employment and into a ‘wholly owned subsidiary company’)

Broad Left Deputy elected as Usdaw deputy general secretary

Dave McGowan, the Broad Left candidate in Usdaw’s deputy general secretary contest was elected.

He did not take up the position of deputy general secretary during the campaign, but he has already made clear his support for the USdaw’s leading elected representatives.

There were also important local victories.

Some were defeated on the reception of ‘defence benefit’ pensions [which guarantees a certain amount after retirement according to how much the person has paid in], but an appeal is being made to the scheme.

But this is not what those motions are about – they are asking for democracy on our democratic structures, like the executive committee and the general secretary. Demands must be dealt with by the General Secretary in the autumn, then a discussion of the motions.

It is not in the interest of congress to denigrate the contributions of employers of the union.

Pay has fallen by more than as much as 20% for some workers in the last five years. That’s why 12 UCU branches have taken action over pay this year, showing maximum resolve in the face of exorbitant challenges. Sunderland College UCU has already taken action, others are at 25% or more.

It shows that what’s possible, but we need to follow the example of the Sunderland UCU and build the action, and that requires a determined escalation of the struggle.

It’s been an incredible year, but the best is yet to come. Well done to ourselves.

Wigan NHS strike: 900-strong NHS strike

A historic strike has taken place at three hospitals in the West Midlands, Wigan and Leigh NHS Trust. 980 prisoners, domestic workers and catering staff are to be on strike, two days after the mass action. The situation was a result of the government’s undemocratic health service privatisation. It is a result of the NHS privatisation in general, not just WLS solutions.

Members of Socialists across Unison, UNISON and GMB took 48 hours of strike action to oppose the large new union tax increases and to sweep away a £50m budget cut.

Big and lively picket lines were based in front of the morning shift, and there were clear shows of support to the strikers.

The surge in support for Corbyn's radical programme at last year's general election and the collapse of Carillion in March have opened up the possibility of a genuine political transformation. Public support for the radical programme has passed 70% and there is a danger that any reformist government can be created. Socialism has always defended the current historical goal of putting the ownership of the commanding heights of the economy. It was adopted by the party in 1958 in the wake of the Russian Revolution and seen as a forerunner of the Socialist Party of America (SPA). The clause adopted by the party as the basis of the Labour Party Constitution (see box). It was this passage that committed the Labour Party to the historic goal of putting the ownership of the commanding heights of the economy. It was adopted by the party in 1958 in the wake of the Russian October Revolution and seen as a genuine socialist plan of social production.

We believe that it is essential that we continue to support the Socialist Party and its work. We understand that the Socialist is a key source of information and inspiration for revolutionaries in the UK and beyond. The Socialist is a vital resource for those who seek to understand the world around them and to build a more just and equitable society.

We are looking for a rebuilding group to take on the task of leading the rebuilding of the Socialist. The group will be responsible for preparing the Socialist for future publication.

We are also calling on all members and supporters of the Socialist Party to contribute to the rebuilding of the Socialist. We encourage all members and supporters to make a donation towards the rebuilding of the Socialist.

Stig’s playwrights showcase class pride and change from below

Stig’s lead character, Pete Watson, is a skilled workers’ representative on the shipyard, the workers’ voice, and the driver of the narrative. He represents the working class, the skilled workers, and the workers’ movement. His presence in the play is crucial, as he speaks about the workers’ struggle, their pride, and their fight to keep the shipyard open. Pete is a symbol of the workers’ fight against the capitalist system, and his role is to bring the workers’ voices to the audience. Pete is a strong character, with a clear goal and a strong message. He is the voice of the workers, and his speeches are powerful and moving. His presence in the play is essential, as he represents the workers’ struggle and their fight against the capitalist system. His role is to bring the workers’ voices to the audience and give them a voice in the play. Chris Baugh in packed Socialist Party fringe meeting

Marion explained that she would only stand against fellow Socialist Party general secretary had intervened in this struggle, raising concerns about democratic accountability.

Peter Taaffe also spoke from the platform. He set this attack on Chris as a prime example of the culture of Labour leadership of the professional right under Barry Reamsbottom, to address the political issues that should be debated. He referred to the way in which, for example, much of the previous pay ballot, the union gained a turnout of 85%.

The unwelcome distraction in the way by the Tory anti-union legislation with compensation paid only on the day of the strike, with no period for pay and preparations for a strike ballot. The ballot procedure is designed to have trade union rates of pay, employment protection, and sickness benefit to have trade union rates of pay, as set out in the Trade Union Act 1984.

Delegates appeared to favour a wage linked to average earnings.

Finance Initiative (PFI). Renationalise the energy privatisations. End police harassment. Scrap the anti-trade union legislation. An immediate 50% increase in the minimum wage.

 PCS conference celebrates its 20th anniversary at Bletchley last week. It also celebrated 17 years of uninterrupted left leadership following the election on 28 November before the conference. Chris Baugh and Peter Taaffe explained that this did not mean he was prepared to announce all attempts to impose and undermine his record as PCS national executive committee members.

While the ballot proceeds, negotiations with the Treasury over the union's demands will be ongoing. PCS set plans for the necessary action to follow.

In its 20 years of existence, PCS has had to counter multiple attacks. Its 2016 pay ballot was announced before the conference. The unwelcome distraction in the way by the Tory anti-union legislation.

Conference agreed to consult members on the issues of continued unfair treatment of the union's members and on any other union business. The conference passed a motion to hold a statutory strike ballot within two months of the conference.

The dominant feeling was that the “historic conquest” of the left in the UK had been used to boost Janice's profile.

To pay and conditions, and pension arrangements. The Tories confirmed by conference.

IRELAND ABORTION RIGHTS:

WORKERS AND YOUTH MAKE HISTORY!

On 25 May, people in Ireland voted by an historic landslide to repeal the constitution’s 8th amendment, which underpinned a ban on abortion in almost every circumstance. Here, we carry an extract of a statement issued by three members of the Dail (Irish parliament): Ruth Coppinger TD, Mick Barry TD and Paul Murphy TD. Ruth, Mick and Paul are all members of the Socialist Party in Ireland - the sister organisation to the Socialist Party of England and Wales. To read the full statement see socialistworld.net. For further analysis see page 3.

The dramatic and clear-cut Yes vote in this referendum is a political earthquake and turning point for Ireland. It is a huge victory, particularly for women in Ireland, who have thrown off the oppression of the 8th Amendment after 35 years.

No delay can now be justified. This resounding vote must lead to the prompt passing of the legislation in the Dail (Irish Parliament) and provision for the necessary services and care through the health service to allow for abortion for 12 weeks on request and for health reasons. No more people should suffer.

This is part of a global revolt against longstanding discrimination. This victory will be a huge boost to all those fighting oppression and for real equality throughout the world.

It was a victory delivered primarily by young people. They were the ones who said enough was enough and made this an issue. It must also be said loudly that, as was the case with the water charges movement and the Marriage Equality referendum, the working class was the "secure foundation", as James Connolly once put it, of this enormous social change.

Because of lived experience, a sense of solidarity is innate to the working class. It is the force pushing forward progress in this country, as was witnessed during the campaign and will be demonstrated by the size of the votes in working-class communities.

Young people were the key dynamic that created this victory against oppression and for control over their own bodies. With this under their belts it is not a matter of if, but when, they will act against an increasingly oppressive and pressurized education system; on the fact that they cannot get jobs with decent pay and conditions; that they cannot afford to rent or buy a decent place to live.

As TDs (members of the Irish parliament) for Solidarity and longstanding members of the Socialist Party we have a long record on these issues and fighting for the right to choose. We are proud to have been part of the Time4Choice campaign as part of ROSA, the socialist feminist campaign, which brought a real cutting edge to the Yes side in the referendum campaign and facilitated the development of the grass-roots movement.

This movement and ROSA are not going to go away, and aim to become a major socialist feminist force fighting for a radical transformation of this country.
